

Atomic softness and the electric dipole polarizability

Fuentealba,

Reyes,

The relations between the atomic softness and the atomic electric dipole polarizability are studied, both in a theoretical and an empirical way. For atoms and ions with one or two valence electrons a remarkably good correlation is found between the atomic electric dipole polarizability and the third power of the softness. © 1993.