

Gastric cancer in Chile: A cooperative interhospital study: I. Clinical findings and diagnosis

Csendes, Attila

A cooperative interhospital study was designed in Chile to get an actual and complete information about gastric cancer. Seven-hundred and fifty-two cases were included in this report. In the first part, the relevant clinical findings and the most important diagnostic procedures are reported. The importance of these findings is discussed. © 1975 Oxford University Press.