Small oscillations: A new solution based on non-Noetherian symmetries

Hojman, Sergio A.

A new (non-Noetherian) symmetry transformation for the small oscillations problem is exhibited. A novel way to solve this classical problem, based on conservation laws constructed using the new symmetry, is presented. Applications of these results to other fields of physics are outlined. © 1993 American Institute of Physics.