

Commercial reagents in the diagnosis of Chagas' disease Reactivos comerciales en el diagnóstico de la enfermedad de Chagas.

Astorga,

Herskovic,

The great diversity of commercially available products for the serologic diagnosis of Chagas disease led us to conduct a study of these products in comparison with the indirect immunofluorescence test. Percent agreement between methods ranged from 79 to 100%, the details for each product being given in the text. Better control of commercially available diagnostic products is recommended.