

Trichotillomania. Report of one case Tricotilomanía. Caso clínico

Silva I, Hernán

Trichotillomania is characterized by recurrent pulling out of one's hair for pleasure, gratification, or relief of tension that results in noticeable hair loss. We report the case of a 31 years old woman with a 20 years clinical history of trichotillomania who responded favourably to fluoxetine, a serotonin selective reuptake inhibitor.