

K⁺ Channel Tetramerization Domain 5 (KCTD5) protein is a novel TRPM4-associated protein that regulates channel activity and cell migration.

By:Silva, I (Silva, I.)^[1]; Rivas, J (Rivas, J.)^[1]; Canales, J (Canales, J.)^[1]; Alvarez, A (Alvarez, A.)^[1]; Blanco, C(Blanco, C.)^[1]; Calderon, H (Calderon, H.)^[1]; Diaz, N (Diaz, N.)^[1]; Ibarra, D (Ibarra, D.)^[1]; Flores, G (Flores, G.)^[1]; Maureira, D (Maureira, D.)^[1] ...More

MOLECULAR BIOLOGY OF THE CELL

Volume: 28

Meeting Abstract: P3286

Published: 2017

Document Type: Meeting Abstract

View Journal Impact

Author Information

Addresses:

- + [1] Univ Chile, Mol & Cellular Biol Program, Fac Med, Santiago, Chile
- + [2] Univ Chile, Pathophysiol Program, Fac Med, Santiago, Chile
- + [3] Univ Santiago Chile, Fac Chem & Biol, Dept Biol, Santiago, Chile
- [4] Millennium Nucleus Ion Channels Associated Dis Mi, Santiago, Chile

Publisher

AMER SOC CELL BIOLOGY, 8120 WOODMONT AVE, STE 750, BETHESDA, MD 20814-2755 USA

Journal Information

- Impact Factor: Journal Citation Reports

Categories / Classification

Research Areas: Cell Biology

Web of Science Categories: Cell Biology

Document Information

Language: English

Accession Number: WOS:000426664303358

ISSN: 1059-1524

eISSN: 1939-4586