

Generalization of therapeutic gain in the treatment of premature ejaculation

Yulis, Sergio

Following treatment for premature ejaculation, 23 males provided reports of sexual intercourse with females other than the one who had been a treatment partner. Analysis of the data strongly suggests that concomitant assertive training in the treatment of sexual dysfunctions increases the probabilities of generalization of therapeutic gains. © 1976 Association for Advancement of Behavior Therapy.